ABSTRACT

Lora Elfianti (12070174), Parenting Children at an Early Age Marriage Couple in Nagari Simpang Subdistrict Simpati Pasaman District, Thesis, Department of Educational Sociology STKIP PGRI West Sumatra, Padang, 2016.

This research is motivated by marriage tends to be done by teenagers who are young or not old enough to get married. A lot of people who have been married does not think about what might happen after living as a married couple, especially for couples who marry at a young age. In addition to causing problems to the couple, also did not rule out the possibility that the problem also have an impact that is not good for children are also on each family. The purpose of this study was to describe the Parenting Children In Early Marriage Couple and Obstacles Faced Couple Marriage in Early Childhood Parenting in Nagari Simpang Subdistrict Pasaman of Simpati.

The theory used in this research is Structural Functional theory of Talcott Parsons. This research is qualitative and descriptive. Informants in this study were a married couple and a spacious family early age. Selection of informants using purposive sampling with 27 informants. The type of data is primary data and secondary data. The data collection is done by holding a non-participant observation and in-depth interviews. The unit is a group of data analysis. Analysis data using an interactive model Miles and Huberman which includes data collection, data reduction, data display, and verification / conclusion.

Based on these results it can be concluded that: (1) parenting at an early age of a married couple is permissive parenting, democratic and authoritarian. Of the three parenting the more dominant applied is permissive parenting. a) the lack of supervision and the strict rules of the parents. b) advise the child and not punishment. c) control the actions of the child. d) communicate openly. 2) constraints in the care of a young couple is: a) the lack of experience of older people. b) was not ready to be a parent. c) it is difficult to control emotions.

Keywords: Parenting, Couples Married In his Age Early